

PRINTED IN ARABIC.

America Has a New Paper of a Novel Kind.

The first Arabic newspaper on the western continent has begun its weekly issue from its office at 47 Pearl street, New York, and its name is The Kawkab America, which means "Star of America." There is no such paper in Europe or in any other country where Arayan tongues prevail, yet, strange to say, The Kawkab has a large constituency already assured.

It is a surprise and freshens one's impression that New York is truly cosmopolitan, to learn that there are in that city 7,000 Arabs, Syrians, Persians and others whose written language is Arabic. In both Americas there are, says The Kawkab, about 150,000, and in the world 270,000,000. It will be edited and published by Mr. N. J. Arbee, interpreter in the bureau of immigration, and his brother, Dr. A. J. Arbee, and will be not only the organ of all readers of Arabic in America, but a medium of spreading information about them and the United States among their congeners in Asia and Africa.

A GLIMPSE OF THE OFFICE.

While most of the paper will be published in Arabic, there will be a small department in English, so editors who exchange with it need not despair. Both the proprietors are Christians, and expect most of their support from Syrian Christians, but will, of course, avoid anything calculated to offend Mohammedans. All the compositors are natives of Syria, and as there are 1,335 characters in Arabic their type cases are calculated to make an American printer stare. In fact there are six cases for each compositor, ranged according to the frequency of use of the characters. Editor N. J. Arbee is a graduate of Maryville college, Tennessee, where he was professor of various languages for five years, but his brother, the doctor, is a graduate of the Imperial college, of Constantinople. The latter has practiced medicine for some years in New York and the former was United States consul at Jerusalem under President Cleveland.

An English Lawyer's "Reports."

The humor of the legal mind is sometimes a trifle subtle, writes a London correspondent of the Yorkshire Post. There is just now to be seen in the window of a famous secondhand bookshop in the Strand a complete set of Voltaire in fifty volumes. The set is bound in what is technically known as "law calf." It has evidently belonged to a lawyer who hesitated to let his clients perceive that he was given to reading anything so mischievously frivolous as the philosopher of Ferney, or who could not resist his own little joke. Instead, therefore, of lettering the volumes "Voltaire," which everybody would have understood, he had them inscribed "Aronet's Reports." The joke would of course be lost upon those who happened to have forgotten that the great philosopher's proper name was Arouet de Voltaire.

Some Russian "Conveniences."

A person living in Russia cannot justly complain of ennui, for there a child ten years of age may only go from home to school with a passport. Servants and peasants cannot go away from where they live without a passport. A gentleman residing at St. Petersburg or Moscow cannot receive the visit of a friend who remains many hours without notifying the police of his arrival. The porters of all houses are compelled to make returns of the arrival and departure of the above passports a charge is made of some kind. As for foreigners, the solicitude of the authorities for their "comfort" is really touching. They are scarcely allowed to breathe without passports, for which fees are asked.

A Victim to Science.

"Blinded suddenly and for life; his eyes cut out by the flying glass." Such are the words in the brief announcement which tells of the calamity to Professor Edward D. Campbell, of the University of Michigan. It appears that he was trying an experiment—to measure the amount of hydrogen liberated by the action of acids on steel—and the PROFESSOR CAMPBELL gases were passed as generated into a bottle through a piece of spongy palladium. This became redhot, and just as the professor bent over to examine the bottle it exploded.

One eye was literally cut to shreds by the glass splinters, and the other badly injured, and both had to be removed as soon as possible. The victim is but twenty-eight years old, yet had already achieved a high reputation as professor of chemistry and had a bright future before him. He is a son of the late Judge J. V. Campbell, of the supreme court of Michigan, and has a wife and two children. His agony was terrible, and he prayed for death as a relief when told that recovery of sight was hopeless. But the shock to his general system was very slight, and he is recovering rapidly.

Strikes at the foot—Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. That's the reason so many different diseases and disorders yield to it. They all have the same beginning—there's a torpid liver or impure blood. And they all have the same ending—they're cured, by this remedy.
